

Teleradiology is growing worldwide in both equine and companion animal veterinary medicine. Digital radiology and the ability to transfer digital images easily has positively impacted the practice of veterinary medicine. Our goal at Animal Imaging is to help referring veterinarians solve diagnostic dilemmas which may result in a more effective treatment plan. We feel teleradiology can be important in consistently achieving an accurate diagnosis. Radiographs, cross-sectional studies, and ultrasound images can be submitted to our board-certified radiologists at Animal Imaging for review.

Our radiologists include Dr. Rita Echandi DACVR, Dr. Dana Neelis DACVR and Dr. Beth Biscoe DACVR. Veterinary radiologists have completed an approved residency program in diagnostic imaging that includes at least three years of advanced training and intensive study in Radiology (x-ray), Ultrasonography, Computed Tomography (CT), Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) and Nuclear Medicine.

We would request that you submit any imaging study needing interpretation through DVM Insight. DVM Insight is our preferred image transfer software system. There is no cost to your clinic to become enrolled with DVM Insight. This software will allow you to provide limited history and upload your images which are directly sent to our radiologist. The report is then e-mailed directly to the submitting veterinarian within 24 hours of submitting the study. DVM Insight also allows Animal Imaging to share our studies of your patients through their “Guest Access” feature. This will allow you to review and/or download these images to your system should you wish to do so. The first three radiographic submissions are free.

Please contact our staff or DVM Insight directly to provide step-by-step guidance that will walk you through the process of signing up. DVM Insight can be reached at (866) 669-8090.
